...once again quote from Durand's On the Disfiguration of the Image of Man in the West:

To the symbolic approach space is never a geometric Euclidean void. It is an aggregation of localities, analogous or homologous according to their qualities. It is a vital area of extension with an above and below, an interior and exterior, a right and a left, a zenith, a nadir, a North, an East, and so on. ■

As in spatial extension, sympathies join objects together and coagulate them around significant nuclei, so in time many images are qualitatively superimposed.

Qualitative, symbolic time adheres sympathetically to places and things: the omnipresence of the imaginal corresponds to the anachronism of events.
